quick prioritize savings for real financial progress

Canadians are prioritizing savings as they continue to navigate the challenges of the pandemic and rising inflation. BMO's annual savings study found that 63% of Canadians have a tax-free savings account (TFSA), with an average holding of $34,917. Introduced in 2009 as an additional savings vehicle, a TFSA is a registered plan that allows Canadian adults with a valid Social Insurance Number to save a certain amount of money each year without paying taxes on the earnings. To combat the uncertainty of the pandemic, TFSAs and other investment vehicles, such as registered retirement savings plans (RRSPs), help make real financial progress and enable those who've contributed to meet long- and short-term financial goals. The following are some findings on Canadians' sentiments regarding retirement savings.

Different Registered Plans for Different Financial Goals

Consider themselves knowledgeable about:

Registered retirement savings plans (RRSPs)

74%

49%

Registered Disability Savings Plans (RDSPs) 16%

Source: BMO savings study, 2022.

Reproduced with permission from Plans & Trusts, Volume 41, No. 2, March/April 2023, page 6, published by the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans (www.ifebp.org), Brookfield, Wis. All rights reserved. Statements or opinions expressed in this article are those of the author and do not necessarily represent the views or positions of the International Foundation, its officers, directors or staff. No further transmission or electronic distribution of this material is permitted.