

Sheela Andrews, Pharm.D.

Chief Product Officer
Retiree First
Mount Laurel, New Jersey

As chief product officer, Sheela Andrews' primary focus is to strengthen and build out the current Medicare products offered while focusing on the strategic direction of her organization. Dr. Andrews is responsible for owning and overseeing the strategy, planning, development and implementation of all of Retiree First's Medicare products, carrier relationships and collaborations, strengthening compliance, data integration improvements and product service enhancements. She brings over 20 years of health care leadership experience, including expertise within Medicare. Her more recent professional career at UHC focuses on developing and managing client relationships and service delivery, including being accountable for client performance and financial results as well as executing and driving cross functional strategic programs, products and initiatives. Dr. Andrews is a graduate of the University of Southern California where she earned her doctor of pharmacy degree.