

Katherine Atkinson

Employee Experience Consultant
ethOs
Waukee, Iowa

Katherine Atkinson has spent her entire career helping others succeed at theirs. She's happiest when thinking about others and connecting people with their purpose and impact. Katherine also enjoys helping employees understand group and team dynamics. As an employee experience consultant, Katherine offers guidance and support to clients in the areas of employee well-being, engagement, and leadership development. Prior to joining ethOs, Katherine worked for Marquette University, LifeLabs Learning, and most recently, the Greater Des Moines Partnership as their director of workforce. Through this work, Katherine gained knowledge and experience in adult learning theories, employee attraction and retention, upskilling employees, and leadership development. She continues to keep her eye on current and future trends in the world of work. Katherine attended Wartburg College and graduated with a bachelor's degree in psychology as well as a minor in leadership. Katherine then continued her education at Western Illinois, where she obtained her master's degree in college student personnel. In addition to her education, Katherine is certified in the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator (MBTI) and is also a certified Gallup Strengths Coach. When not at work, you can find Katherine spending time with her family, baking, traveling, exploring the outdoors and reading.
