

Kristin Begley, Pharm.D.

Chief Growth Officer
Capital Rx
Lewes, Delaware

Kristin Begley is the chief growth officer at Capital Rx, the fastest-growing health care company in the United States, built around the mission of changing the way prescription drugs are priced and patients are serviced. Begley is an industry leader in health information technology, pharmaceutical supply chain and value-based care, focusing on innovative solutions and software. Prior to joining Capital Rx, Begley served as chief commercial officer at Wildflower Health, a digital enablement care company that specializes in virtual and value-based care for payers, providers and patients. Begley was also a founder and served as chief pharmacy officer at Truveris, Inc., a health care technology company that sheds light on the inner workings of the pharmaceutical supply chain, serving all segments, including consumers. Earlier in her career she worked at Towers Perrin and led Hewitt's national pharmacy practice, where she managed pharmacy benefit strategy for Fortune 500 companies. Begley completed her residency in managed care at the Managed Care Institute and graduated from the Samford University McWhorter School of Pharmacy.