Frederic Blanc-Brude is the CEO of Scientific Infra, an index provider specializing in the provision of unlisted infrastructure equity, debt market indices and custom benchmarks. Scientific Infra was created to bring $10 million and five years of R&D at EDHECinfra to infrastructure investors, using the largest database of infrastructure financial data in the world in combination with a unique asset pricing technology to derive mark-to-market prices of highly illiquid assets like infrastructure. Before joining EDHEC, Blanc-Brude spent ten years in the infrastructure finance field with direct involvement in more than $6 billion of transactions. He is a regular contributor to the G20 working group on infrastructure investment, represents EDHEC on the Advisory Board of the Global Infrastructure Facility of the World Bank and is a member of the Editorial Board of the Journal of Alternative Investments. Blanc-Brude also chairs the management committee of The Infrastructure Company Classification Standard (TICCS™). He holds a Ph.D. degree in finance (King's College London) and degrees from the London School of Economics, the Sorbonne and Sciences Po Paris.
