

Ann Marie Dale, Ph.D., OTR/L

Professor
Washington University
St. Louis, Missouri

Ann Marie Dale is a professor of medicine and occupational therapy at Washington University in St. Louis. Dr. Dale has over 25 years of experience in clinical treatment and research in the area of occupational health and safety with a primary focus on injury prevention, epidemiology and health promotion. Her current studies focus on interventions to reduce the incidence of chronic musculoskeletal disorders and risks for opioid addiction and other substance use disorders in the construction industry.