Partner, Compliance and Advisory Practice Group Leader
Octillo

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Jordan L. Fischer is the compliance and advisory practice group leader at Octillo. She leads the Octillo team to represent clients in cross-border data management and information governance, creating cost-effective and business-oriented approaches to information security, data privacy and technology compliance. She has extensive experience in the intersection of law and technology, regularly evaluating and assessing legal and business opportunities as well as risk to provide clients with critical data privacy and cybersecurity assessments and strategy. Recognized as a Super Lawyers Rising Star in Technology Law and named to the American Bar Association's "On the Rise—Top 40 Young Lawyers" list in 2022, Fischer practices nationally and internationally and has counseled clients on a wide variety of regulatory requirements, security and privacy frameworks. She counsels clients regarding contractual negotiations related to technology, data management, security and privacy in a variety of sectors, including emerging technologies (blockchain, internet of things and artificial intelligence), pharmaceutical, health care, agriculture, adtech and manufacturing. Prior to joining Octillo, Fischer clerked for Koen Lenaerts, the president judge of the Court of Justice of the European Union, and she was a founding member of a women-owned law firm. Fischer is a lecturer in cybersecurity at the University of California–Berkeley and a professor of law at her alma mater, the Thomas R. Kline School of Law.
