

Maria Fraga

Senior Vice President, Account Executive
Lockton Global Benefits Practice
Boston, Massachusetts

Maria Fraga is a senior vice president and account executive for the global benefits practice in Lockton Northeast's Boston office. In this role, she combines consulting and management on global benefits and mergers and acquisitions. Fraga also develops global well-being strategies that fit each client's culture and needs and consults on integrated HR management solutions for global benefits and wellness plans. Over more than 30 years at Manulife and John Hancock, she gained expertise in all aspects of benefits—including administration, strategy, global benefits and wellness—and led a team with responsibility for the strategy and programs of more than 35,000 employees globally. Fraga also has expertise in employee communications, mergers and acquisitions, integrations and complex solutioning. She earned an associate of arts degree in accounting and finance from Quincy College and a bachelor of science degree in business administration with a minor in sociology from Curry College. Fraga also holds a certification in HR management from Curry College. She speaks fluent Portuguese and is proficient in Spanish.
