

Deanna Hahn

Director of Clinical Operations
SSM Health Dean Medical Group and Monroe Clinic
Madison, Wisconsin

Deanna Hahn is a Director of Clinical Operations for SSM Health Wisconsin, where she leads occupational health, employer health, and direct-to-employer initiatives focused on improving access, outcomes, and value for employer partners. In her role, she oversees multidisciplinary teams and collaborates closely with providers, operational leaders, and community organizations to develop innovative programs that support workforce wellbeing and population health.

With a passion for building strategic partnerships and transforming healthcare delivery, Deanna has been instrumental in advancing services that address chronic disease prevention, occupational medicine, wellness, and employer-based healthcare solutions. She is committed to creating programs that are clinically effective, operationally sustainable, and meaningful for both patients and employers.

Known for her collaborative leadership style, Deanna enjoys bringing people together to solve complex challenges, improve patient experiences, and foster healthier communities. Her work is driven by a belief that healthcare organizations can make a lasting impact when they combine innovation, strong relationships, and a focus on measurable outcomes.
