

Patrick Haraden,
M.B.A., CEBS, CEBS Compliant

President
Lockton Boston
Boston, Massachusetts

Patrick Haraden is president of Lockton's Boston office, where he is a strategic client advisor providing employee benefit, retirement, and property and casualty risk management solutions to public sector and private employers, joint purchase groups and pooled arrangements. Before he joined Lockton, Haraden served as area president in New England and the Northeast Regional Director of Gallagher's public sector practice. He began his career as an underwriter for Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Massachusetts and Harvard Pilgrim Health Care. He also held senior consultant roles at Fidelity, Hewitt Associates and Watson Wyatt Worldwide. He then became a partner at Longfellow Benefits, which was acquired by Gallagher in 2013. He earned the CEBS designation, is CEBS Compliant and is a past president of the Greater Boston chapter. His other service to the Society includes the Symposium Education and Professional Development committees. He has also taught CEBS courses. Haraden earned his bachelor of science degree in accounting and management at Northeastern University and his master of business administration degree in taxation at Bentley College. In addition to CEBS, his professional designations include CPCU, GBA, RPA, CLU, ChFC, RHU, REBC, ARM, AIC and ASLI. Haraden is a licensed health and property and casualty insurance producer and advisor in Massachusetts and holds insurance producer and consultant licenses in several other states, is an author on risk management topics and speaks frequently at industry conferences.