Lawson Lundell LLP

Vancouver, British Columbia

Megan Kaneen, a partner at Lawson Lundell LLP, advises boards of trustees and plan sponsors on a variety of legal matters involving pension plans, employee life and health trusts, and other benefit plans. Her clients include both single employer plans and trustee multi-employer plans across a wide range of industries. Kaneen interprets and amends plan texts and trust documentation, advises on the application of provincial and federal pension legislation and regulator policy, and drafts supporting plan documentation such as participation agreements, third-party reimbursement agreements and governance policies. She advises on issues that arise in day-to-day plan administration; assists her clients with specialized projects such as plan conversions, surplus ownership review and contract review; and assists the resolution of benefit disputes outside of court. Kaneen has significant experience reviewing and advising on pension and benefit plan investment agreements.
