

Keith Laschinger

Executive Director
Cleveland Builds
Independence, Ohio

Keith Laschinger draws on more than 25 years of non-profit leadership experience to help people access careers that provide financial stability and meaningful work.

Since 2021, he has led Cleveland Builds, which has helped more than 300 people begin and sustain careers in 18 union construction trades. Many of these workers come from low-income backgrounds, are people of color, or are women. The industry-led organization leverages public and private revenue sources and brings together contractors, organized labor, the county workforce board, and other community stakeholders.
