

Christopher Leins

Principal
Slevin & Hart, P.C.
Washington, D.C.

Christopher Leins is a principal in the Washington, D.C. law firm of Slevin & Hart, P.C. His practice focuses on ERISA litigation. Leins represents multiemployer pension and welfare plans in a variety of actions, including disputes in Chapter 11 restructurings, withdrawal liability matters, successor and alter ego claims, fiduciary matters and class action litigation. He regularly litigates matters before federal district courts, as well as arbitrators, and is involved in all aspects of litigation—from discovery and pretrial motions to appeals. Leins counsels benefit plans on issues related to pension plan terminations, mergers and spin-offs, and best practices to avoid litigation under ERISA's fiduciary rules. He also represents clients in Department of Labor investigations. Christopher was named a Super Lawyer Rising Star in the area of employee benefits/ERISA from 2017 to the present. He is admitted to practice in the District of Columbia and Virginia and is also admitted before several United States district courts and courts of appeal. Leins received his undergraduate degree from the University of Virginia and his law degree from the Wake Forest University School of Law.
