

Shana Peschek, M.B.A.

Executive Director
Machinists Institute
Seattle, Washington

As executive director of the Machinists Institute, Shana Peschek is leading the vision to build a better future for aerospace, manufacturing and machinist workers across Washington state through dedication to excellence in recruitment, education and training. The institute delivers programs on multiple levels of education and training, including pre-employment, registered apprenticeship, certifications and more. In her previous role, Peschek spent 11 years as a leader in supporting the building and construction education and training programs across the state. She has also been active nationally on the National Skills Coalition Work based Learning Advisory Board and the Tradeswomen Task Force, and she has served as a member of numerous statewide association boards, K20 advisory boards and workforce focused committees. Peschek earned her M.B.A. degree from City University and a bachelor's degree in English from Washington State University.
