

Edmund Piro, CFA, SIPC

Chief Investment Officer
McConnell Foundation
Montréal, Québec

Edmund Piro is the chief investment officer at the McConnell Foundation, where he is responsible for oversight and strategic initiatives for the Foundation's endowment, including its commitment to allocate 100% of its assets toward investing for impact. Edmund is a CFA charterholder with more than 15 years of experience in the investment industry. He earned a bachelor's degree in commerce from the John Molson School of Business at Concordia University and holds certificates in sustainable investment from both Concordia University and Oxford University. Edmund is board chair of the Loyola High School Foundation and a member of the Terry Fox Foundation's investment committee. He also volunteers with several organizations in his community.