

Jeannine Markoe Raymond

Director of Federal Relations
National Association of State Retirement Administrators
Washington, D.C.

Jeannine Markoe Raymond is director of federal relations for the National Association of State Retirement Administrators (NASRA). NASRA is a nonpartisan, nonprofit professional association of the executive directors of the nation's largest public retirement systems. Raymond is the association's liaison to Congress, the Administration and its many federal agencies as well as other national associations, policy organizations and stakeholder groups. She frequently coordinates educational efforts, speaks and writes on federal legislative and regulatory matters and is a contributor to publications on state retirement system policies and administration. Raymond serves on the advisory board of the Wharton Business School's Pension Research Council, the Government Liaison Committee of the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans, the board of directors for the Coalition to Preserve Retirement Security and the advisory board of the Modern Markets Initiative, and she co-chairs the Financial Services Task Force of Women in Government Relations. She was a congressionally appointed delegate to the 2002 National Summit on Retirement Savings. Raymond received a bachelor's degree in economics (with honors) from the University of California, San Diego, and a master's degree (with honors) in public administration and intergovernmental management from the University of Southern California. She serves on the board of trustees of Calvary United Methodist Church and is the board chair of Calvary Children's School in Arlington, Virginia.