

Karen Hanson Riebel

Partner

Lockridge Grindal Nauen P.L.L.P.
Minneapolis, Minnesota

Karen Hanson Riebel is a partner at Lockridge Grindal Nauen P.L.L.P. Recently, she has been on the forefront of international data breach litigation, representing individuals and financial institutions against such retailers as Target and Home Depot. Riebel also concentrates her practice in the areas of antitrust and securities litigation. In 1994, Riebel spent seven months in Anchorage, Alaska as a member of the trial team that secured a jury verdict for punitive damages in the amount of $5 billion for a mandatory punitive damages class in In re The Exxon Valdez, Case No. A89-0095-CV (D. Alaska). For their efforts, Riebel and the other members of the trial team were awarded the Trial Lawyers' For Public Justice Trial Lawyers of the Year award in 1994. At present, Riebel is co-lead counsel for plaintiffs in multiple significant data breach cases, including In re Capital One Consumer Data Security Breach Litigation, 19-md-02915 (E.D. Va.). She is/was also counsel for plaintiffs in the following data breach and data privacy cases: In re iPhone Application Litig., Civil No. 11-md-2250-LHK (N.D. Cal.); In re Google Android Consumer Privacy Litig., Civil No. 11-md-2264-JSW (N.D. Cal.); and In re Banner Health Data Breach Litig., No. 16-cv-02696 (D. AZ).