

Anthony (Tony) B. Ross Sr., M.A.F.M., M.B.A., CPA, CGMA, CIA, CFE, GCMIS

Assistant Professor of Accounting (Retired)
Concordia University Texas
Austin, Texas

Anthony Ross retired as assistant professor of accounting at Concordia University Texas. He taught financial accounting, managerial accounting, intermediate accounting, fraud examination, cost accounting and audit theory. Prior to joining Concordia University Texas, Ross retired from Austin Energy, where he served as an internal audit manager. He has over 40 years of professional experience in public, private and government organizations. He served as an adjunct professor at Austin-area colleges, teaching accounting and business courses for many years while employed at Austin Energy. Ross also served several years as an elected member on the board of the city of Austin employees retirement system, serving as board chairman and policy committee chairman; he was re-elected to a third four-year term as a retiree board member. Ross has served as chair of the Austin Community College's accounting advisory committee, where he has over twenty years of experience serving. Ross is a Certified Public Accountant (CPA), a Certified Internal Auditor (CIA) and a Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE). He earned the CFA Institute Investment Foundations Certificate and the Certificate of Achievement in Public Plan Policy (CAPPP) in Pensions from the International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans. Ross is an active member of the Texas Society of CPAs, The American Institute of CPAs, the Institute of Internal Auditors, the National Association of Black Accountants and the Association of Certified Fraud Examiners. He holds an M.B.A. degree and a graduate certificate in management information systems, a master's degree in accounting and financial management, a bachelor of science degree in management and two associate in applied science degrees.