

Emily Stuckey, M.S., CPS

Chief Executive Officer
ARCHway Institute
St. Louis, Missouri

Emily Stuckey is the CEO of ARCHway Institute, a 501(c)3 that helps those impacted by substance use and co-occurring mental health disorders. In addition, she is the founder of The National Peer Recovery Alliance (NPRA), working to elevate and empower the peer workforce nationally. She is a published author of the book, Igniting Hope: The Story of a Community Lighting the Way to Recovery as well as a Certified Peer Specialist. Emily's formal education is in English Education through Southeast Missouri State University with a masters in curriculum and instruction from Missouri Baptist University. She taught for six years in the Parkway School District in Missouri. Emily is passionate about this work because she has experienced the impact of substance use. She believes all people should have access to resources that allow them to truly thrive in recovery and live lives they never dreamed imaginable.
