

Stacey Tovrov

Director, Head of Investment Strategy, Retirement Solutions
BlackRock
New York, New York

Stacey Tovrov is director and head of investment strategy on the retirement solutions team at BlackRock in the Multi-Asset Strategies and Solutions group. She is responsible for delivering solutions for and representing the global LifePath target date fund franchise, drawing from BlackRock's broader retirement capabilities to institutional investors, consultants and financial professionals. Prior to this role, Tovrov was focused on product development and strategy as a member of the Multi-Asset Strategies group, focusing on the firm's sustainable investment solutions. She was also a member of the Strategic Product Management group. As a member of the BlackRock Portfolio Management group, she was responsible for executing strategic projects and business management initiatives across all the firm's investment teams. Tovrov joined BlackRock in 2008 as part of the institutional client business in New York and London, where she was responsible for developing and maintaining relationships with the firm's central bank, sovereign wealth fund and other official institution clients. Tovrov earned a B.A. degree in economics and international relations from Tufts University.