

Aaron J. Walker-Duncan

Vice President, Board and Communication Services
British Columbia Pension Corporation (BCPC)
Victoria, British Columbia

Mr. Walker-Duncan is the vice president of board and communication services for the British Columbia Pension Corporation (BCPC). He is responsible for formulating the strategic direction and delivery of support and services to the British Columbia public sector pension plan boards of trustees supported by the corporation. This includes leading the board services, plan communications, and policy teams. Walker-Duncan has held various roles within the corporation since 2004. Prior to this, he was a benefits consultant with Deloitte in the United Kingdom, where he advised clients on executive pension arrangements, acted as a professional trustee and managed pension issues associated with organizational insolvencies. Walker-Duncan has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Simon Fraser University and an ICD.D designation through the Institute of Corporate Directors. He has completed the advanced pension education program from Humber College and earned a certificate in Advanced Trust Management Standards (ATMS™) from the International Foundation.