

Tina M. Williams
Assistant Director
Electrical Training Alliance
Bowie, Maryland

Tina M. Williams is renowned for her strategic acumen in grant management as the assistant director with the Electrical Training Alliance (etA). Her pivotal role in securing and managing apprenticeship and training grants has significantly enhanced the educational landscape for union electrical workers across the 285 training facilities nationwide. Before her tenure with the etA, Tina was the transformative executive director of the Charlotte Electrical Joint Apprenticeship Training Committee (JATC). Tina is a proud alumna of the University of Phoenix, holding a bachelor's degree in business administration. She actively contributes to the etA Craft Certification Committee, aiding in the evolution of craft certification processes within the electrical industry. Her advocacy for women in construction is reflected in her involvement with the National Association of Women in Construction (NAWIC), Indianapolis Chapter, where she serves on the Mentorship Committee. Tina's expertise has graced various International Foundation conferences, where she has shared her insights on apprenticeship recruitment, retention, and the efficacy of pre-apprenticeship programs.
