

Thomas K. Wotring

Owner and Principal Attorney
Wotring Law LLC
Washington, D.C.

Thomas K. Wotring is the owner and principal attorney of Wotring Law LLC. Prior to October 2021, he was a partner and senior counsel in the labor, employment and employee benefits practice at Morgan, Lewis & Bockius in the Washington, D.C. office. Wotring's experience as a lawyer includes administration of multiemployer pension and health benefit funds, negotiation and implementation of single and multiemployer collective bargaining agreements, and counseling and litigation defense under various state and federal employment statutes. In addition, he served as a professional trustee on a variety of multiemployer pension and health funds, including New England Teamsters Pension and the Central Pennsylvania Teamsters Pension and Health Funds. Wotring has been a guest lecturer in labor and employment law matters at George Washington University School of Law. He has also received specialized training in investment matters at the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School of Business and Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government. He is a former member of the International Foundation Professionals Committee and has served as a moderator and speaker at numerous International Foundation conferences. Wotring graduated from American University and received his law degree from Washington and Lee University School of Law.