Senior Project Manager
The Ohio State University Wexner Medical Center
Columbus, Ohio

Jessica Diallo currently works for the Ohio Colleges of Medicine Government Resource Center (GRC) as a senior project manager on infant mortality and women's health projects. She has over 15 years of experience in public and nonprofit organizations. Prior to her work with the GRC, Diallo worked in two roles at The Ohio State University, managing recruitment for three undergraduate programs in the department of food, agricultural and biological engineering as well as managing out-of-state recruitment and assisting students and families with the college admissions process in the office of undergraduate admissions and first year experience. She also worked at Huckleberry House, Inc., providing crisis services and linkage to community resources to adolescent youth and families. Diallo owns a small fitness business in Columbus, Ohio and teaches cardio dance classes. Her business focuses on building community through fitness, and they partner with local organizations and businesses to host free community dance events throughout the year. Diallo has a bachelor of science degree in psychology and a minor in sociology as well as a master of arts degree in public policy and management from The Ohio State University. She is currently enrolled in the graduate certificate program in health and wellness coaching at The Ohio State University and will graduate in December of 2022.
