

Chuck Gillespie

CEO

National Wellness Institute
Stevens Point, Wisconsin

Mr. Gillespie is the CEO of the National Wellness Institute. He is a former human resources executive with responsibilities that included leading workplace wellness efforts that resulted in a substantial financial and cultural impact to the company. Mr. Gillespie has spent time teaching for Indiana University–Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI), and Indiana Wesleyan University. Over the last 20 years, he has developed numerous workplace and community initiatives, as well as evaluated and consulted with hundreds of organizations on wellness strategies. Mr. Gillespie’s work in the wellness industry has been recognized and utilized nationally and internationally. He was recognized as a Friend of Wellness by the Fisher Institute for Wellness and Gerontology and as a Beacon Community Champion. Mr. Gillespie was presented with the Hulman Health Achievement Award in 2016 and accepted the Heathy 10 award from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Foundation in 2017. He earned his bachelor’s degree from Purdue University and his master’s degree from the University of Indianapolis.