

Jesse Greenfield, M.P.H., CHES®

Founder, Director of Programming & Facilitator-in-Chief
Kaleidoscope Training Center
San Diego, California

Jesse Greenfield (they/them/theirs) is a queer health communicator, storyteller and improviser from San Diego, California. Their approach to health communication centers people's lived experiences to create personalized, inclusive and accessible education. Greenfield's experience as an improviser has been invaluable, and their work as the founder, director of programming & facilitator-in-chief of Kaleidoscope Training Center is deeply informed by the power of experiential learning. Greenfield supports others in creating accessible and inclusive environments through compassion and active listening, approaching work and life from a "yes, and..." mindset, and demonstrating how responding compassionately and authentically is vital to effective teams.
