Ms. Rivest is a research and policy assistant for the Financial Consumer Agency of Canada (FCAC). In her role, she monitors and evaluates trends and emerging issues that may have an impact on financial consumers in Canada and provides secretariat support to the FCAC research committee on financial literacy. Ms. Rivest’s recent projects include coordinating a national survey to assess the banking experiences of older Canadians and evaluating the impact of budgeting behaviours and attitudes on the achievement of financial well-being outcomes. She holds a master’s degree in economics from the University of Ottawa and a bachelor of commerce degree in business administration and economics from the University of Windsor.
