

Carolyn A. Romano, J.D.

Vice President of Product, Attorney
Torchlight
Burlington, Massachusetts

Ms. Romano is trained as a special education and elder law attorney and consultant and has close to 25 years of experience working with families and school systems around the country on systems-change efforts and support for children at risk. In addition, she is certified in mind-body medicine and self-care from the renowned Center for Mind-Body Medicine in D.C. In her role as vice president of product, Ms. Romano brings this range of experience to bear along with her extensive knowledge of teaching and learning strategies for both children and adult learners, information design, data collection and scrum. She earned a B.A. degree from Drew University and a juris doctor degree from Boston University School of Law. Ms. Romano just entered her sixth year at Torchlight.